MMT TOKEN HALVING SYSTEM

What is Halving?

Halving is a strategic blockchain mechanism where the token reward generation rate gradually reduces over time. This process is designed to control token circulation, maintain digital scarcity, and support long-term ecosystem sustainability by reducing reward distribution at fixed intervals, halving helps create a balanced token economy while encouraging early participation and long-term community growth.

MAC MINT introduces a Smart Halving Ecosystem that operates through structured cycles, reducing token distribution every 90 days. This model is designed to strengthen token value stability, prevent excessive inflation, and create a sustainable reward structure for the ecosystem.

The MMT halving system also supports decentralized growth by balancing supply and demand while promoting responsible ecosystem expansion. Through smart halving, MAC MINT aims to build a future-ready blockchain ecosystem focused on innovation, sustainability, and long-term digital value creation for its global community.

HALVING OBJECTIVES

- Control token inflation
- Increase ecosystem scarcity value
- Maintain balanced token circulation
- Create long-term sustainability
- Encourage early ecosystem participation
